Junket of Business Men Is Complete Success From Start to Finish in the Glow of a Real California Sunset

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS WELCOME HOME

Home Newspaper Meets Travelers at Burbank With All the News of What Had Happened While the Voyagers Were Away

Friendship and co-operation of the various towns of the San Fernando valley of which Glendale is the gateway were the keynotes of the big booster trip yesterday by the mebmers of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and the represntative business men of the city. Mayor Spencer Robinson, City Manager William H. Reeves and Councilman S. A. Davis accompanied th pearty as representatives of the city administration and did their part as boosters of Glendale with a whole-heartedness that left no doubt in the minds of the citizens of the various towns visited that Glendale is 100 per cent strong as boosters.

A warm sun smiled down on the motorcade of 48 cars that left Glendale yesterday morning at 8:45 and continued to smile through the day, bearing proof that even the weather man had caught the spirit of the day and was doing his bit by contributing the best weather that he had in stock. The party headed north for the Tujunga-Sunland district, and the drive through the hills to Tujunga was a joy in itself.

At Tujunga a big reception had been planned for the travelers. The cars were lined up along one side of the road and the truck bearing the Shrine club orchestra was driven into the park in the center of the city and awoke the town with strains of snappy jazz. After several selections, City Manager Reeves talked for several minutes and explained to the people of Tujunga the object of the visit. Mr. Reeves was followed by John S. Knox, vice president of the Tujunga chamber of commerce, who bid the visitors welcome in the name of the people of Tujunga.

Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale introduced to the visitors Wilmot Parcher, the first mayor of Glendale, who talked for several minutes on community cooperation. The reception committee at Tujunga was made up of members of the Parent-Teacher association, the Business Men's association and the Women's club. After the talks, several of the visitors danced on the platform in the park to the music furnished by the Shrine club orchestra.

By the time the party arrived in San Fernando the motorcade had increased from the 48 cars that left Glendale to 54 machines filled with boosters. In all, about 200 boosters made the trip.

On arriving in San Fernando the party was met by a delegation from the chamber of commerce of that city and a parade was held

HUBBY'S NIGHT IS THURSDAY CLUB EVENT

Delightful Affair Is Held at Home of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft

A very delightful affair was the "husband's night" of the Thursday Afternoon club which entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft on the corner of Brand and Laurel. It was a reception for old and new friends of club members, who were welcomed by Mrs. Bancroft, Mrs. E. V. Bacon, president of the club, Mrs. William Mabry, Mrs. S. E. Brown, Mrs. James W. Everington, Mrs. J. Stuart Street, Dr. Jessie Russell, Mrs. Frank Peters, Mrs. Dunlop, Mrs. Ernest Morgan, Mrs. George Larkin and Mrs. Jos. Storer. Mrs. J. E. Wesley, the club's chairman of hospitality, was prevented from being present by a broken ankle.

Mrs. Kemper Campbell was chairman of program and opened the program with a little speech of welcome and a talk on the service rendered to modern life by the woman's club. She then introduced the speaker, Miss Gertrude Darlow of the Los Angeles public library, and the trombone soloist of the evening, Fred Stuckey, who was accompanied on the piano by Miss Eleanor Mack, and who played "The Old Home Down on the Farm" (Harlow) with variations, and "When the Quiet Moon Is Beaming" (Campana).

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, and Mrs. John Robert White, president of the Parent-Teacher federation, who were special guests, responded to call with a few words expressive of their pleasure in the program and the cordial relations that existed between the organizations they represented and the hostess club, which is filling a real need in the southern part of the city, Mrs. White declaring that her work with students and teachers had convinced her that the clubs of the future would be wonderful institutions.

Delicious refreshments of coffee and a variety of sandwiches were served by a committee of which Mrs. William Mabry was chairman. Mrs. Hal Davenport and Mrs. Lilian Meddick poured, and were assisted by Mrs. A. H. Mayne, Mrs. Roy Bancroft, Mrs. W. E. Anderson, Mrs. L. C. Denman, Mrs. C. E. Van Tyne and Mrs. J. L. Rober and others. About 150 ladies and gentlemen were present

PROWLERS ANNOY MANY RESIDENCES

Neighbors of Mrs. Rhinehart, 422 East Harvard street, notified her Tuesday night that there was a man watching the Rhinehart house. The police were notified and Officer Mereness made an investigation. He could find no one but Mrs. Rhinehart was not satisfied and asked permission to leave her jewelry in the police department safe until morning. This was granted.

Another report of a prowler was turned over to the police by A. L. Bancroft, 1423 South Brand boulevard, who telephoned he had seen a man climb down a tree from the roof. He telephoned the police at 2:30 a. m. and said that a man had climbed from the roof at 10 p. m. He said there was a man still on the roof.

Officers Mereness, Nunn, Seddon and McLean responded to the call and after a search of the house and grounds reported that they could find no one.

ARMY ASSISTANCE

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Secretary of War Weeks today gave orders to the army to render all possible assistance in flood relief work along the lower Mississippi river.

DIPHTHERIA WINS HI SCHOOL DEBATE

Sister of Negative Speaker Stricken It Counts Him Out

The negative pair in the high school debating team—Miss Kathleen Campbell and Victor Colburn, are considerably upset by an unexpected circumstance. Victor's sister has been quarantined for diphtheria and Victor is under observation as a possible carrier. If medical experts rule against him, he will not be permitted to participate in the league debate set for Friday night at Glendale High with two representatives from San Diego on the question: "Resolved, that California should adopt a judicial court for the settlement of capital-labor disputes similar to the Kansas court of industrial relations."

For the honor of the school George Jordan agreed to stand in the breach in case Victor could not appear, and devoted all of Wednesday, giving up all of his regular school work, to familiarizing himself with the question and with Victor's notes, that he might be ready if called upon. He will continue to work on the matter today as the decision relative to Victor will probably not be rendered until tonight or tomorrow morning.

The affirmative team of the school which is composed of Helen Sherwood and Harold Majors, will go to Hollywood for debate Friday afternoon.

FEDERAL CONTROL

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Government control of mining and distribution of coal was recommended to congress today by Nelson P. Kaskill, chairman of the federal trade commission, as the most effective way to prevent profiteering in the industry and keep prices at a reasonable level.

Philosophy of Life Is Set Forth Tonight in "Listening Post"

"I believe the spirit of men and women is good," says James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" tonight. "I believe in the day and its opportunities," he says. "I believe in men and women and the world. In light not dark. In good not evil. In life and not death."

There you have the philosophy of cheerfulness set forth squarely. Perhaps you believe in the same things but have not expressed them as Mr. Foley does. We want every reader of this paper tonight to make it a point to turn to the page where "The Listening Post" is to be found and read every word that Mr. Foley says.

If you believe in education, in self-respect, in love and friendliness, this article will appeal to you. If you believe in the good things of life, in the real things, the great things, then make it your first duty to read "The Listening Post" tonight.

And have the other members of the family read it. Better still, read it aloud to the whole family. It is meant for them all.

LLOYD GEORGE IS STILL HOPEFUL

Russian, German Obstacles Will Be Overcome He Predicts

GENOA, April 20.—"The success of the Genoa conference is assured," Premier Lloyd George declared today, addressing the press of the world at San Giogia palace.

Lloyd George announced the conference will take up consideration of a Pan-European pact on non-aggression.

Nations will guarantee not to attack each other without lengthy consideration of their difficulties.

Referring to the Russo-German treaty signed at Rapallo, Lloyd George said:

"We have reasons to believe that Germany will withdraw from this treaty.

"Had any other nation represented here at Genoa so signed behind our backs it would have broken up the conference."

Lloyd George was most optimistic in his predictions.

"We are overcoming all our difficulties," he repeated. "We are having the greatest success."

The premier declared his confidence that the "other difficulty" regarding Russia would be removed with receipt of the soviet reply today.

ADDITIONAL TRUCK IS CITY'S NEED

The Glendale city council will be asked tonight to allow the street department sufficient funds for the purchase of another truck to be used in repairing holes in the streets. City Manager Reeves says that this truck is an absolute necessity in as much as the city now has three trucks at work repairing streets and there is in addition more work than it will be possible for them to complete.

Mr. Reeves and Street Superintendent DeWaard recently made a trip over the streets of the city and find that there are several streets in need of immediate repairs. Mr. Reeves says that he will tell these facts to the city council tonight in his plea to that body for another truck.

Other improvement work planned by the street department is the scarifying of several streets in the residence section and renewing the surface. In several instances the streets will be resurfaced.

This work is practicable now that summer is approaching and the rainy season is over as the gangs of men that have been employed hauling away the dirt that washed onto the streets during the rain are available for duty on the scarifier.

CHAUFFEUR HUBBY COUNTER SUITS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—Floyd Glotzbach, chauffeur-husband of Mme. Margaret Matzenhauer, opera singer, today struck back in the divorce suit his wife has started against him.

Through his attorney he filed a counter complaint in the superior court here at 10:30 a. m. today.

Glotzbach, who continues to drive a "for rent" automobile at Del Monte, Calif., was not present when the complaint was filed.

Time for the hearing has not yet been set.

IRISH REBELS REPELLED

DUBLIN, April 20.—Rebel assaults on the free state headquarters, the town hall, telephone exchange and upon provisional government patrols in Dublin early today, were beaten off after heavy exchange of rifle fire.

Concert? Tonight? Listen -- Join the Press Radio Fans

By N. D. GARVER, RADIO EDITOR

If you are going to be busy at 5:30 tonight, get rid of the business. If you are not going to be busy, make tracks toward the Glendale Daily Press. Concert? Well, I should say.

Today marks the official dedication and opening of the Los Angeles Examiner's new Radio Station (Radio KFI). The Wiedoeft's Jazz orchestra, who are masters at the art, will undoubtedly open the program. There will also be a saxophone solo by Wiedoeft, himself.

Also, Mabelle Burch, the brilliant coloratura soprano, will sing. You undoubtedly remember her from her brilliant success at Sid Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre.

Miss Jeanette Rogers, the noted flute soloist, through the courtesy of Sid Grauman, will play a selection.

Willie and Eugene Howard, famous comedians and stars of "The Passing Show," will also favor us. Possibly some of their biggest song hits, including "Kentucky Blues."

Nacio Herb Brown, composer, will sing one of his latest successes.

Many other attractions will be added which are not listed, so, folks, if you want to hear a Radio concert, such as you never heard before, be in front of the Glendale Daily Press and hear the concert, "VIA RADIO," with all the trimmin's.

KFI, from today on, may be heard broadcasting during the following hours: 1:15 to 2:00 p. m. and 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. daily. Sundays, 10:45 to 11:30 a. m., 4 to 5 p. m. and 8 to 8:45 p. m.

Glendale Avenue Situation

The situation caused on Glendale avenue by the maintenance of the lumber yards is one that should have the earnest thought and united action of everyone in the city.

The city council has tried to meet the problem by arranging for the electrification of the Salt Lake.

The real problem, however, is not the railroad and the tracks but the location of the lumber yards in the residential portions of the city—while there is a zoning district for industries.

Should the yards be moved, the railroad traffic would dwindle to insignificance.

Whether or not there is virtue in the victory of Los Angeles over the Montgomery Lumber company, establishing the precedence of paramount interest of residential to industrial occupants, the problem of keeping the city clear—and clearing it—of all elements retarding growth is fundamental.

There is value in the suggestion of Councilman Davis, that the condition will adjust itself. That the yard will see its own interest in moving to the industrial section, as other yards have done. But for the present owners of Glendale avenue property, value or not, they are losing realty values by the maintainnig of a freight yard in the street.

Such a condition can be changed. If such a condition maintained on Brand boulevard, there would be an effective protest.

Glendale avenue is the gateway to the Verdugo canyon. As such it deserves to be cleared of all obstructions in order that the beauty of the Glendale approach should be in keeping of the splendor of the district beyond.

It should never be said that Glendale maintains a street which resembles a freight yard, as the only means of entrance to the foothills.

It should be beautified, made a parkway, a thing of art, so that he who rides may get an atmosphere which will leave the impression that all Glendale is as wonderful.

Plans for organizing a women's auxiliary to the post were discussed and it is predicted that this organization will be perfected at the next meeting of the camp, May 3.

TRY-OUTS FOR HI ORATORICAL TEST

Juniors and Seniors to Pick Representatives to Meet in Verbal Clash

Two try-outs have been completed for the oratorical contest of Glendale High which has been set for May 5th. Donald McMillan has been chosen to represent the freshmen and Fred Peck the sophomores. At two try-outs to be held tonight, juniors and seniors will pick their representatives.

This is the great big event in the school year yielding more thrills than commencement. The auditorium of the school has never been adequate to hold the many who desired to attend the contest where class challenges class for honors. This year the situation is more acute than ever before and where it will be held no one knows. Propositions have been made to stage it on the lawn and on the athletic field in front of the bleachers. No one knows what the decision will be.

HI GIRLS TRY FOR BASEBALL TEAM

Try-outs have been going on for the girls' baseball team of Glendale high and it is expected a team will be picked tonight, says Miss Florence Knight, the instructor. Games have been scheduled with Anaheim, Burbank, Hollywood and other schools, but the league contests will probably not begin until May.

In tennis the girls are playing a continuation tournament which will enable Miss Knight to pick a team to represent the school in league games which will also be deferred for two or three weeks.

IMPROVEMENT ASSN. URGES ZONING

East Glendale Improvement Assn. Refused Substitute

The lumber yards must come off of Glendale avenue, the Glendale Avenue Improvement association told Councilman Sam Davis at a mass meeting held in the high school last night.

The shriveling up of the steam line, or any line on Glendale avenue, according to the sense of the meeting, would follow.

Councilman Davis offered as an alternative an arrangement already made and to be put before the city for the electrification of the line, elimination of the steam drawn cars, provided the owners would pave the street.

The owners in the meeting declared that as to paving they would see to it, after the steam cars were removed.

The meeting swung back to the demand of the Glendale avenue residents that the lumber yards be zoned off the thoroughfare and forced to the sites already held by the lumber companies on San Fernando road.

Councilman Davis, with his usual frankness, declared that he was personally opposed to putting any person or interest out of its home. Further, he did not know how it could be done. And he did not know how the steam cars could be taken off the avenue. One city attorney had resigned on the job, he said.

Chairman Levy volunteered to draw an ordinance that would zone the lumber yards off and promised to fight it through to the supreme court at his own expense if the council would adopt it.

Members of the association spoke regretfully of what they termed the failure of Mayor Robinson to make good his threat that if the steam cars were not taken off he would zone the city and throw the lumber yards out of the district.

"Then the zoning of the city followed," said Chairman Levy, "and the lumber yards were left where they are."

"And additional lots were permitted to them," said a voice.

Kemper Campbell in a clear-cut address told the meeting that the line was a monstrosity. That it must be gotten rid of. That electrification of the line would not answer. The street would still be through the business section of the city, ending at the Porter hotel, where dinner was served after a brief reception and general get-acquainted meeting.

FRIENDSHIP MADE FROM MOTORCADE

While the reception was being held in the lobby of the hotel, John L. Watson, of the Glendale Sheet Metal works, and Mr. Page of the Page Furniture company, placed cards bearing the names of the two business houses they represented at each place at the banquet tables. Before the visitors left the tables, Secretary James M. Rhoades of the Glendale chamber of commerce suggested that a collection be taken up for the musicians. Fred Deal, manager of the Glendale office of the telephone company, suggested that inasmuch as the Glendale Sheet Metal works and the Page Furniture company had secured more advertising at the banquet than any other firm he thought these two companies should pay for the music. After a general laugh the collection was taken.

Before the dinner was served, acting on the suggestion of President Val Hollister of the Glendale chamber of commerce, every guest at the tables arose and told his name and business. After the introductions the speakers were called upon.

Dr. Jessie Russell was the first speaker called, and in a few words she eulogized San Fernando for its rapid growth and pledged the sisterly support of the women of Glendale for the women of San Fernando in any movement of benefit to the city.

Mayor Robinson of Glendale was the next speaker called. He told of the growth of Glendale and San Fernando. He said that as far back as 1911 he had visited San Fernando and predicted that some day its growth would astonish the county, and intimated that this prediction was being fulfilled at present. The street problems of Glendale and other cities of the valley were also mentioned by the mayor in his talk.

F. S. McCormick of the San Fernando chamber of commerce spoke in behalf of the city and the chamber of commerce and made the visitors welcome. He said in part:

"This is the first time that any sister city has ever visited this city in a body, and we feel highly honored tha you made San Fernando your luncheon stop. We want to get better acquainted with the people of Glendale and foster a spirit of friendly cooperation with you that can mean only mutual benefit to both of us."

Supervisor Henry Wright of this district was then called upon, and in his talk he said he was glad to be a member of the booster party making the trip, as he thought it was a fine thing for the residents of the various towns to become better acquainted and, through this acquaintance and interchange of ideas, help build up the various communities. He said that the day had passed when the merchants of one town could build up a substantial business through tearing down the business and ideals of the merchants of neighboring cities. Mr. Wright said that the communities were getting away from the knocking spirit and were favoring the spirit of exchanging ideas for community betterment. In closing he said: "Pride in your town does not mean that you must knock other towns."

After the dinner the motorcade was reformed and another parade of the residential section of the city was held before the party was taken to the San Fernando mission, where the remains of the one-time center of civilization in the San Fernando valley was viewed, before driving on to Owensmouth, where a short stop was made while City Manager Reewes and Supervisor Wright addressed the people.

At Zelzah, the "high spot" town, a welcome that was different was tendered the travelers. The Zelzah Women's club was in charge of the reception, assisted by the local chamber of commerce. Upon their arrival the members of the motorcade were escorted to the Women's club house, where punch had been prepared for the travelers. The Shrine club orchestra was placed on the stage and the visitors and hosts danced to the strains of "The Sheik," "Wabash Blues" and other selections until time for the speakers to take the floor. The first speaker was W. E. Evans of Glendale who spoke briefly, saying that the object of the trip was to foster the spirit of buying at home. He said the motto of the entire trip was "buy at home—but if your home town merchant cannot supply your need, we can in Glendale."

Spencer Robinson, Glendale's singing mayor, was introduced and led in the community singing of "Auld Lang Syne." Mayor Roach of Zelzah was then introduced, and after a few words of welcome he in turn introduced Mrs. Harris, president of the Zelzah Women's club, who had charge of the reception, and who bid the visitors welcome to her town.

In Van Nuys, the next stop for the party, Cecil Wilcox, secretary of the Van Nuys chamber of commerce and editor of the Van Nuys News, bade the visitors welcome to Van Nuys of Los Angeles county, the town with no mayor, no council and no taxes. He said that all street improvements, street lights and other municipal requirements were free, coming as they do from the county rather than from an incorporated city. Mars Grimes extended a welcome from the chamber of commerce.

Mayor Robinson was the next speaker and, in the language of the streets, he "handed the raspberry" to Mr. Wilcox for representing a town where everything was free. The mayor spoke in a jocular vein and his remarks were received as intended by him—as a joke—and after his talk Mr. Robinson led in community singing.

In Lankershim, Roy L. Kent was the principal speaker of the Glendale party. He said in part:

"We are here to help Lankershim put over the "trade at home" idea. We have a selfish motive in a way, inasmuch as we are advising that if the people of Lankershim cannot find what they want in their home stores, that they come to Glendale, where their wants can be supplied, and where they can park on Brand boulevard or any of the other business streets all day without being arrested for doing so. If the people of Lankershim have any problem they cannot put over, we will come up, if asked, with a gang similar to the one making the trip today, and help you put it over." He closed his talk by inviting the people of Lankershim to visit Glendale at any time and advised that they would always find a welcome at the chamber of commerce. He told the Lankershim hosts that Glendale is a city of cooperation with a model chamber of commerce, only one year old, but which is taking a big part in the civic life of the city.

In Burbank, the last town to be visited, the motorcade upon entering the city was met by representatives of the Glendale Daily Press who distributed copies of the current issue of the paper, fresh from the press, with an account of the morning schedule of the motorcade, as telephoned to the Press by a representative who accompanied the party, to every occupant of every car in the motorcade.

Councilman S. A. Davis was the principal speaker in Burbank and said:

"Glendale loves Burbank, and when you love, you always move up as close as possible to the object of your affections. Glendale is doing that. We are ready to put our arms about Burbank."

He said that Glendale is ready and willing to assist Burbank in securing factories and other industries if Burbank wants her sister city to do so, and the people of Glendale that whatever benefits Burbank is sure to help Glendale, and vice versa. He closed by saying, "If Burbank wants anything and cannot find it at home, come to Glendale and get it."

Judge Owen Emery of Glendale also spoke in the same vein; Rev. Ford of the Glendale Baptist church also spoke inspiringly.

These addresses were responded to by the mayor of Burbank and the secretary of the chamber of commerce of that city.

From Burbank the party returned to Glendale, and after parading the streets of this city disbanded, feeling that a great act had been accomplished in creating a feeling of fellowship and cooperation between the cities of the San Fernando valley.

LEGION NEWS

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A problem of dollars and cents—how to finance the government and keep party pledges—loomed today as the hardest task of republican leaders from this time on.

The problem is complex but here are its elements:

1—Taxes, and how to keep them producing enough to run the government, and at the same time keep the party's promises to reduce taxation.

2—Tariff, how to make it produce revenue and at the same time satisfy the demands of business and agriculture for protection against foreign competition.

3—The soldier bonus; how to pay it without ruining the party with the voters, or how to avoid paying it without ruining the party with the ex-service men.

The party put into effect a new tax law with the strong intimation that within a year taxes would again be reduced. Now Secretary Mellon warns of a $484,000,000 deficit next year and income tax payments have fallen off alarmingly.

Consideration of the tax problem always brings up the bonus question for taxes, many republicans hold, must be levied for at least part of the bonus payment. The hope is strong among senatorial bonus advocates that the foreign debt funding commission will complete negotiations by June, through which $4,000,000,000 worth of British bonds will be received in payment of Great Britain's war debt. Upon these, money could quickly be realized to pay the bonus. But President Harding will not permit congress to count on these British bonds until the bonds are actually in hand.

BLACKMAIL CHARGED

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—Frank W. Morris, alias Malone, was held on charges of using the mails for blackmail today, as a result of the receipt of threatening letters by Julian Hart, Menlo Park, and Charles Gebhart, capitalist and leader in the Mystic Shriners' activities here.

THREW FORTUNE AWAY

NEW YORK, April 20.—Betrayed by a boy companion who refused to go into his plans to steal a few hundred dollars and then go to Arizona and reform the west, Robert Byrnes, 15, bank messenger, is alleged to have admitted to police today that he threw $121,000 off Brooklyn bridge.

"It was in securities and negotiable paper and I couldn't figure any way to cash it," the youth is said to have confessed.

FEDERAL JUDGE QUIZ

HUBBY'S NIGHT AT THURSDAY CLUB

Mrs. Campbell declared that the club trains women to "love thy neighbor as thyself." It gets women out of their houses and out of their ruts. They compare their troubles and their blessings and find they are not so badly off after all, and go home more contented. The club helps to mould public opinion. Said she:

"It is necessary that everybody should help to guide public opinion. You cannot do it alone, by yourself. When it comes to politics you have to know what to do. You will never know if you do nothing but read the newspapers. The only way to combat organized propaganda is in some such way as this. The club has helped South Glendale materially. It is absolutely necessary because of the local situation that we should have some place where we can get together and calm our fears. I want to pay my compliments to the women who stood by us in the days on reconstruction down here, Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. Brown and others. We are greatly interested to know for the present harmony between the two sections of the town."

In a very charming, informal way, Miss Darlow gave a wonderful picture of Europe as she saw it last summer, and her impressions of the people. She was accompanied by a young relative who had served during the war on the battlefields of France and who was eager to have her see them under his guidance.

They sailed for Liverpool and Miss Darlow expected to find great change in England, which had been her home and which she had not visited for many years, but it was so unaltered that presently it seemed as though she had gone away but yesterday. There was this change, however—everywhere the absence of the young men, and in every churchyard, large or small, the monument to those who died in the war. The base of the great cenotaph in London, standing in the center of Whitehall, which she visited, was buried in flowers every day. She tried to read some of the inscriptions on the wreaths, but the pathos was too much for her.

"The charm of Europe is quite opposite to that of America," she said. "The charm of the stationary of the past. In America it is the charm of movement, of progress. The architecture and the things displayed in the windows are all strange. In London it is not the things you go to see that make your visit interesting—it is London itself, as a whole."

She was disappointed not to see the green and blossoming hedgerows on the way to London. The country was suffering from the greatest drought in 40 years. The hedges were brown and dry, and in some cases had been burned by sparks from the engines.

The outstanding features of her visits to France and Belgium were the battlefields, over which she and her companion wandered on foot through miles and miles of devastated villages and country seats. The fields presented a wavy, rippling appearance, she said, because of the trenches, which have been filled in but not yet fully levelled, and most of the people are living with courage and cheerfulness in such shelters as can be made of curved pieces of corrugated iron with shrubbery at the back for a screen, and the front open. All cities she found dwarfed by Paris, with its wide boulevards and thoroughfares, particularly Berlin, which was disappointing with its high, ugly buildings and modernity.

She told of the progress toward restoration that is being made in Belgium; of the beauty of Poland, the terrible poverty of its war-ravaged people, the depreciation of its currency and the distress of seeing so many famine-stricken faces.

When she was homeward bound and, fearing an unpleasant search at the hands of customs officers on the Polish frontier, when interrogated by the Polish woman inspector who removed her cloak, she uttered the only word she could think of to help her case—"Americana"—and at once the cloak was returned to her shoulders with profuse apologies and broken words of thanks for the relief work America has been doing.

It is impossible to give in detail the many interesting things vividly described in Miss Darlow's talk which lasted over an hour, and which held her audience, particularly the men guests of the club, spellbound with interest.

HONOR WAR ANIMALS

A tablet commemorating the services of 243,135 American horses and mules in the war, 68,682 of which perished, has been unveiled in Washington.

CHIEF FRASER APPOINTS HAY TO FIXED POST

Spring has sprung! This morning bright and early, Chief of Police John D. Fraser appeared at the city hall wearing a "hay kelley" and he was not alone, for several of the city's leading business men had also decided to discard the faithful felt or hard iron derby in favor of the straw chapeau.

Another sign of spring is the fact that Councilman Sam Davis appeared on the booster trip wearing a vivid red necktie, and several of the ladies were wearing furs. Now that the warm weather is really here furriers are preparing for a busy season as the stubborn sex prefer them in the summer time.

Bert Marple Dreams Poem Amid Spring Glory of Verdugo Woodlands

By BERT MARPLE

Just close your eyes and let your imagination run riot. Isn't it just the easiest thing in the world to visualize the following picture?

Green sage-scented foothills—
With music or running brooks—
And balmy, fragrant atmosphere of the highlands—
The majesty of giant sycamores and live oaks—
Imperishable vistas of towering mountains—
And clean aromatic odors of wooded canyons—
An abundance of pure, soft mountain water—
Secluded bridal paths, wooded trails, sunny knolls, shaded vales—
And peace, quiet, restfulness and healthfulness of the country.

Even before you open your eyes you realize that you have been enjoying a mental picture of Verdugo Woodlands, that wonderful, green "Verdugo Hills" section that is attracting so much attention at this time. It is a tract of land comprising of several hundred acres lying in the northeastern part of Glendale and constitutes one of the most wonderful parts of the most wonderful city in the world. It is the home section of heart's desire.

The Verdugo Woodlands section has a wonderful history. When Santa Maria and Jose de Verdugo came to California from Spain, they found no literature to describe the "Green Verdugo Hills," but he possessed the practical mind of the pioneer combined with the Spaniard's delicately discriminative sense of beauty which guided him to the Verdugo Woodlands.

To him the Spanish king has given a principal of lovliness—three hundred thousand acres within whose cheerful prospects of sylvan recesses were many plots of rare charm and witchery. But to his instincts the site of Verdugo Woodlands presented the most infatuating allurements of all and here he established his "adobe."

Old Jose understood the meaning of prevailing winds and he realized that Verdugo Woodlands is exposed at the north to the cool night air of the Sierra Madras, while on the south the canyon opens to the day breezes of refreshing seas. When winds sweep exposed places the San Rafael mountains ward them off from the vale of the Verdugos as this first homemaker knew they would.

The health-giving qualities of the highlands were well known by Mr. Verdugo, and in this regard this valley, which is one thousand to fifteen hundred feet above the sea met with his approval. The rugged, irregular skyline of the mountains surrounding Verdugo Woodlands furnished an ideal protection for this most wonderful section. Verdugo Woodlands is in a class by itself. The chattering streams—minature amphitheatres backed by beautiful laurel-covered foothills—great gnarled sycamores, evergreen live-oaks, distinctive home, pure air and the many other appealing features, all go to make this locality a home section that is not surpassed in the entire world.

A comparatively short time ago the Verdugo Woodlands section was taken over by the F. P. Newport company, an aggregation of wise, far-seeing realtors, which upon its first visit to that section realized its tremendous value and unsurpassed home-location qualities. Since this property was taken over by this company hundreds of others have come to realize its value and to behold the beauties of this marvelous locality.

All of the advantages of every other high class section suburban to Los Angeles are combined in Verdugo Woodlands and in addition there are some to be found here that are securable elsewhere.

At the same time Verdugo Woodlands is selling for a fraction of the cost of lots in these other sections.

LUMBER YARD ZONING URGED

a freight yard. Only the personal interest of the yards kept them there. The yards must go, he declared, and the line would shrivel up because of lack of business.

Members of the association told of 17-car trains rushing up the avenue to the lumber yards at speeds of from 20 to 35 miles an hour, shaking the houses to their foundations and called upon all Glendale to help remove the yards and the line.

Councilman Davis called attention to the fact that he would try to get whatever the associatoin or people of Glendale desired. But he still thought the lumber yards had a right to consideration; they should not be hustled out of their place of business; he thought it right to allow any business to extend itself a little bit. He was in a quandary whether they could be zoned, once they were in a resident district.

Chairman Levy called attention to the recent decision of the supreme court sustaining the action of Los Angeles against the Montgomery Lumber company in dispossessing the company from a residential district.

"But was it already in the district?" asked Councilman Davis.

"They were and had been for years," said Mr. Levy. "It is established that the councils of cities have absolute right to establish and maintain industrial zones in their cities."

Councilman Davis put forth that arrangemenst had been completed for the electrification of the line. Lumber would still be brought in under the arrangement, but at night, by electric motors. The steam cars were to be done away with. The lumber yards would in time settle their own troubles.

He asked if this would suffice.

Kemper Campbell had previously called attention to the fact that competition had ceased to be a factor in transportation. The law now guaranteed a fair return on corporation investments. Every corporation brought into a city had to be maintained by that city. The introduction of an electric line on the Salt Lake tracks would mean financially that it would have to have the same rate as the P. E. in this territory, although the P. E. rate was fixed upon a consideration of its whole system. He had suggested the possibility of the communities around Los Angeles declaring themselves a public utility district and condemning these rich paying lines and operating them with reduced fare and make a profit.

Therefore Councilman Davis' plan, although it produced a waver of the determination of the meeting, failed to succeed.

The meeting clung to its desire that the lumber yards be zoned off of Glendale avenue in the anticipation that the Salt Lake tracks would be eliminated from use.

After considerable discussion, a petition asking the city council to delay passing the ordinance for the paving of Glendale avenue was signed generally.

Mr. Stuart, druggist at Glendale and East Broadway, invited the members of the association to meet with the East Glendale Advancement association today at the White Inn.

Mr. Ingledue of the Advancement association, who spoke at the invitation of the meeting, explained that his association was anxious to work with the Improvement association and urged that both bodies get together for a harmonious working out of their several plans.

The committee on the subpostoffice will report at the meeting today.

Theory of the Crystal Detector

A detector is an instrument which is used for the purpose of rectifying high-frequency currents in order to make them audible to the human ear. In order to understand perfectly it may be well to state that the human ear is only capable of recording frequencies up to 10,000 cycles per second, and the ears of the population as an average are doing good to distinguish frequencies of 10,000 cycles per second.

Then you wonder how it is that we can possibly read some of the long wave stations, whose frequencies run as high as 30,000 cycles per second. The answer is, "By the use of the detector."

There are many kinds of detectors but the most common of them are: The Galena detector, the Silicon detector, the Carborundum detector and the Electrolytic detector. Galena is a mineral, Silicon and Carborundum are products of electric furnaces and Electrolyte is a liquid formed by the combination of H2O and a chemical. But for the convenience of it, we will just classify all of the above as "crystal detectors."

The above named products all possess the property of rectifying the high frequency currents. Galena, Silicon and Carborundum are made tight in a retainer cup of the detector while Electrolyte is merely poured into a watertight cup. For adjustment of the Galena detector a small wire is made to bear down on the mineral by use of a thumb screw while the adjustment of the Carborundum and Silicon detectors require a strong metal needle which is ground to a point on the end. The Electrolytic detector requires a very fine and specially prepared wire which is .0001 of an inch in diameter. The wire is called the Wollaston wire and is formed by casting an ingot of silver with a platinum core, which is drawn down to a fine wire the size of .0001 of an inch in diameter. This little wire is introduced into the Electrolyte by use of a thumb screw.

The Galena and Silicon detectors are the most common used of the Crystal family because of the fact that Carborundum and Electrolyte require an induced current or battery which is connected in series with the detector, and Galena or Silicon require no battery.

The question may be, "How do these Crystals rectify the current?" All detectors operate on the same principle, viz., unilateral conductivity; in other words, such detectors will pass the current in one direction but not in the other, so that while the current impulses in alternate directions enter the rectifier (the mineral or crystal in this case) only those in one direction are allowed to pass out. Therefore half of the alternations are suppressed, which means that the high frequencies are made audible to the ear.

One of the most simple sets known consist of an aerial, one phone receiver, a detector and a ground. The detector is connected in series with the aerial and the ground and the phone is shunted around the two terminals of the detector. This, however, is a very unsatisfactory set and is used mostly as an experiment.

Note: The next theoretical story will be on the operation of the Audion bulb as a detector.

RADIO TERMS

Ground—In radio the term "Ground," refers to the connection of the set to the earth by means of a heavy wire attached to a water pipe, gas pipe, buried, wire, etc.

Aerial—A wire or wires usually strung or suspended in the air and insulated as much as possible from indirect contact with the ground.

Lead In—The wire which connects the aerial to the set is termed, "The Lead In."

Conductor—That property which offers the least resistance to the passage of current through it, such as copper, gold, aluminum, etc.

Insulator—That property which offers the greatest resistance to the passage of current through it. (Note: There are no perfect insulators yet known and practically all so-called insulators allow a small leaking of the current. Some of the best insulators are porcelain, bakelite, redmanol, glass, hard rubber, mica and numerous others).

Cycle—The increase, in an alternating current, from zero to maximum and back to zero again, in one direction and the increase in current from zero to maximum and back to zero in the opposite direction. In other words a cycle is to alternations, one in the positive direction and one in the negative direction.

Frequency—Refers to the number of cycles per second.

Resonance—When two or more oscillatory circuits are so adjusted to give a maximum reading on an ammeter or other measuring device, they are said to be in Resonance.

HINTS

The ground wire should be of solid copper wire and should be soldered to the water pipe, gas pipe, etc., as the case may be, in order to produce best results. Where a transmitter is to be used the ground wire should be no smaller than No. 8 and should be well insulated to avoid accidents.

The aerial should be of No. 14 bare copper wire for best results in receiving and where a transmitter is to be used should be no smaller than No. 12 bare copper wire, hard drawn.

Do not handle Galena with the fingers. Use a pair of tweezers. When you are ready to receive it is well to rinse the piece of Galena in denatured alcohol. This will cleanse it thoroughly and it will help to produce better results.

Do not unscrew the phone caps only when necessary as you are liable to dent or bend the diaphragms.

If you are using rope to support your aerial, wax the rope by submerging it in melted paraffine. Rain soaks the rope and causes it to tighten and very often will break especially if you keep your aerial taught at all times. When it dries the rope will stretch and allow the aerial to sag. The paraffined rope will prevent such trouble.

Use at least No. 18 wire (commonly known as annunciator wire) to connect your receiving instruments with as smaller wire offers to great a resistance for good results.

"Do they have it on a disc up there?"

"Won't be long before we all will sit in our houses and talk to our neighbors without any wires."

Truths in Epigram

Little deeds of kindness, little words of love, Help to make earth happy like the heaven above. —Carney (1824-1908).

Not in rewards, but in the strength to strive, the blessing lies.—Trowbridge (1827).

An honest God is the noblest work of man.—Ingersoll (1838-1899).

THICK SKINNED SCUTTLERS

The little navy men, having been defeated in the attempt to strip the battleships of crews, now demand a roll call. The demand goes far to show their unblushing nerve. Some of them are republicans. The position they took was in direct defiance of the administration. President Harding had told them the evil results that must follow if the navy were rendered inefficient as they proposed to make it. He told them that it would be a breach of good faith with the powers signatory to the four-power pact. The democrats among the little navy men stand equally without excuse. They may have desired to defeat the administration purpose, but this could not be regarded as adequate justification.

Were the little navy group men of ordinary pride they would be glad to let the matter rest. They would do this in the hope that their un-American part in it might be forgotten. It seems that by some peculiar mental twist they are prevented from being aware that their conduct is deplored, is regarded as disgraceful. Their plea that they favored economy cannot be regarded as sincere, because to have a naval establishment at all, and render it useless, would not be economical.

If they desire to have their names listed formally, it is probable they do not realize that the roster would be regarded as a blacklist. Since they have a fancy to have themselves heralded as eager to destroy the navy, perhaps it would be a good idea to have their names in compact form. Voters could then use it for a guide as to whom not to support at the polls.

ON THE WRONG PLANE

When individual intelligence is considered, it is almost inexplicable that the relationships of nations should fail to be guided by an intelligence at least equal to that of the individual.

It is quite possible for a man to be honest, to realize that his neighbor is honest. The two thus remain on amicable terms. There are no suspicions, no treachery, no scheme on the part of either to curtail the rights, obtain the property, destroy the standing of the other. This is not to be said of nations. As a rule, they are lacking in the honor that must mark the conduct of the reputable citizen. Collectively they play tricks that would send the individual to jail. They operate on the wrong plane, because they are lacking in morals.

It should be regarded as to the interest of all that in the family of nations there be no bankrupts, no failures, no starvlings. If Russia and Germany could resume the normal status of production, of traffic with neighbors, this possibility ought to be regarded with satisfaction. But they are not trusted. Already fears are expressed that these two may unite, may even join with Japan, and then the world would face a terrible triumvirate ready to dominate and absorb it. If nations were reasonably honest and decent, exactly as the citizen of a nation is required to be, there could be no such fear.

There is much said about world peace. Until nations have learned both to trust, and to be worthy of trust, there cannot be such permanent peace. The farmer, possessing broad acres, is content to till them. He does not try to steal the acres of his fellow farmer. This is the course of honesty, but also the course of safety. Why may not nations be conducted on a similar policy? Nobody has the answer.

NEARING THE LIMIT

Down in Louisiana a mob said to have contained 3000 men started out on a lynching expedition. Anger had been aroused by a robbery, a crime that was of trifling magnitude compared with many that might be picked from the daily record. It seems that there is a limit to public patience.

Every day in all the large cities of the land there are perpetrated acts of violence for the purpose of robbery. Murder is not always involved, but the robbers never hesitate to kill if they deem this essential to completion of the job and a safe escape. In many places the streets and highways are unsafe even in daylight. After nightfall the discreet citizen keeps on his own premises. Even there he has scant assurance of safety.

Meanwhile the police are busy in the suppression of vice. They raid the inevitable poker game. They scatter the wicked crap players up the alley and confiscate the dice and thirty cents in stakes. The Chinese, whose one amusement is fan tan, are reached through the battering down of doors, and haled to prison. The fact is that nobody cares much, nor has reason to care, whether the Chinese play fan tan or don't play it.

While these activities are progressing, outside the thug pursues his way, generally unmolested. Thieves dash about in stolen automobiles, stealing and shooting. Burglars enter the home. Armed bands invade banks. Meanwhile the bunko man strips a fortune from the credulous, and with the outcry of the dupe, the incident generally is closed.

When by an exception to the rule, some gross offender is caught, he is defended by a rogue lawyer, wept over by the philanthropist, commended to mercy by a weeping jury, and if finally started to prison, goes in the well-grounded hope that parole soon will set him free.

As remarked before, there is a limit to the patience of the public. Something will have to be done to abate the intolerable reign of the underworld, or the Louisiana mob will be duplicated in every part of the land.

AMENITIES OF PEACE TIME

Recently a man of military bearing was stopped by another, who asked him "Are you Sergeant Smith?" The reply being in the affirmative, the questioner remarked, "I've been looking for you four years," and landed a wallop to the jaw. The ex-sergeant came back, and ensued a merry mix-up, settled however, without fatalities.

In the war it was inevitable that the private in the ranks, fresh from civil life, sometimes should resent the curt orders of the petty superior officer. This might be the case even were the orders entirely proper. Before the war the private might have been in the position of giving orders. Anyhow, complete subjection to military discipline is a hard test to the civilian, accustomed to the use of personal judgment, or at least to courtesy.

As the troops came home many were the threats as to what was to happen to the top sergeant were the private to have the happiness to meet him, when, both in civilian clothes, they would stand on equal footing. Soldiers were reported even to dispute as to which should have first chance at the offender. As nothing in particular happened, it is fair to assume that most of the boys forgot their wrath when they laid their uniforms aside. But one had remembered. Sergeant Smith had subjected him to some disagreeable experience. Hence the wallop on the jaw. It is hoped that this wipes out the grudge, and if the two shall meet again, that they may talk over it in a spirit of amity their days in the trenches.

The powers are much concerned over the signing or supposed signing of a Russ-German pact. Perhaps no harm would come of such an agreement. It is possible that German energy might set Russia to functioning. In the end it might cause the downfall of bolshevism. At the same time, it is likely that the war really has been a lesson to Gerrany, and that hereafter it may see the wisdom of attending to its own business, which is not to dominate the whole of civilization. However, if Russia and Germany have signed up they will be looked upon for the present as an outlaw league.

Severe criticism is being made of whatever policy it was that permitted Semenoff to enter this country. Certainly if the man had not possessed a colossal insolence he never would have dreamed of coming. Nobody wanted him here. There were plenty of protests from Americans who through contact had been made aware of the monstrous character of the former Cossack leader. Now that he is in the United States much embarrassment is caused by the fact that he deserves to be hanged, and that the law seems helpless to treat his case. What to do with him is the question. What country wants a bloody-handed murderer?

The girl who doesn't know how to elope is always the one who is dying to do so.

HATERS OF PLEASURE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Puritanism, at least that quality of it that suspects joy, is not confined to religion.

It is a characteristic of human nature.

DR. FRANK CRANE

Why, no one knows. It is very probably due to some trouble in the bile duct.

They can't help it any more than flies can help loving decayed meat.

The trait is just as common in literature and politics and economics as it is in the church.

One group of writers, very properly called the Bellyache School, pride themselves on being connoisseurs of the disagreeable, and have it particularly in for any writer whose purpose seems to be merely to produce happiness.

Why in time anybody thinks that happiness, with its music of laughter and its rhythm of dance, with its comfort of physical vigor and mental contentment, is necessarily vulgar, is difficult to comprehend.

No, it is not difficult, for after all it is very simple to comprehend. For that attitude is a mark of immaturity, and most people are childish.

Desperation, tragedy and gloom attract attention, and that is what the childish mind craves. A sore thumb gets more publicity than all the healthy body.

The first verses of young poets, the first stories of young romancers, and the first sermons of young preachers run to tragedy.

Most of them get over it. Some grow up to be our leading pessimists.

A recent critic of much talent and more bile launched a vigorous attack upon writers whose object is "merely to amuse."

As such sinners quite often succeed, he is in special heat against Success.

"But," he reflects, "there is justice. You reach success, the public buys your books, you get money and glory, but Posterity shall know you not! The amusers are always ephemeral."

To which the obvious notation should be: "important if true."

To say truth, nobody knows what books of this time will be read fifty years from now, and as we will all be dead it doesn't make much difference.

But why should my swollen egotism set me up to be wiser than my contemporaries?

Let the writer sit at the feet of the world. Humanity probably knows what it needs and desires quite as much as he can tell it.

And joy is the reason of the universe.

Pleasure is the soul's lover.

That some go wrong seeking pleasure proves only that they have not sense enough to see what pleasure is. They are perverts. We are sorry for them. But we are not going to kill the joy of existence for them.

Rightly understood, religion is simply the Way to joy. And not to spiritual delectation and mystic ecstasies only, but the Way to joy in eating and drinking, in work and play, in marriage, in bereavement, in old age.

The greatest of the world's teachers said not so much about being good as about being happy. "Blessed" was his word. And blessed means happy.

The final chorus of mankind will be a hallelujah, not a howl.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Love and Life—By John Wilmot (1647-1680)

All my past life is mine no more;
The flying hours are gone,
Like transitory dreams given o'er,
Whose images are kept in store
By memory alone.

The time that is to come is not;
How can it then be mine?
The present moment's all my lot;
And that, as fast as it is not,
Phillis, is only thine.

Then talk not of inconstancy,
False hearts, and broken vows;
If I by miracle can be
This live-long minute true to thee,
'Tis all that Heaven allows.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

AMERICA WANTS NO IRISH WAR

[New York Times]

Two of De Valera's agents have come to this country to explain to benighted Americans why the treaty between Ireland and England should be repudiated. That is their right. But it is our right to make it plain to them that they are most unwelcome. The same may be said of the spokesmen of the Irish Free State who are to start up a rival propaganda in the United States. If there is to be an Irish war, we don't want it transferred to these shores. It is, of course, not war, but the sinews of war, that the invading Irishmen have in mind. But if Americans, even the bulk of Irish-Americans, were to say what they really think, it would be to cry out to the two sets of Irishmen impartially: "A plague o' both your houses!"

So far as American opinion has made itself audible, its voice has been overpoweringly for peace in Ireland. People in this country were amazed and distressed by the bitter quarrels which broke out in Ireland directly after the treaty was signed. They are now both astonished and disgusted by De Valera's wild words about the probability that Irishmen will soon by shedding the blood of Irishmen. What sort of "republic' is it in which the will of the majority is not allowed to prevail? If the Free State is sustained in the coming election, does De Valera mean to take up arms against it? This is what his agents here ought shaply to be asked. Whatever the answer, both they and their opposing campaigners from Ireland ought to be urged to go home. If there is to be an Irish war, let it be a case of Ireland for the Irish. Americans have troubles enough of their own without taking sides in the miserable and unintelligible squabbles of the Irish factions.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

Won't some wise person please explain just why a "Lucy Stone League" is a necessity? Certain women are advocating it as if on its success rested the fate of the civilized world. Why? we ignorantly ask.

There's no law against a woman going by her maiden name though married, if she so desires. The matter is of passing interest to all but herself. If she prefers being "Miss" instead of "Mrs," and being introduced as such, with her children, who has a right to object? Any married woman who repudiates the name of the man she married and prefers to go through life everlastingly explaining why it is that, though domiciled as a married woman, she insists on being known by the name of her father, surely has the right. But why bother about the rest of us?

Those of us who still cling to the ancient (and honorable) idea that a mere name amounts to very little with most of us, why not leave in peace with our antiquated notions? Here's a place where the much debated prerogative of self-determination might be in its proper sphere. This is a free country, but why insist that others shall come to our idea of freedom? They may have one of their own equally as sensible.

Of course to strike out for some great innovation brings with it a certain notoriety; but surely women who are demanding self-expression, as they term it, would never be guilty of seeking that. Else would the names they so insist on keeping be slightly tarnished in the process.

WIDE, BROAD AND PLAIN

[Hartford Courant]

It is announced now that the Old Testament story of David is to be filmed for the movies. It remains to be discovered how much of this peculiar story will be allowed. If Mr. Hays at $150,000 a year passes the anecdote in full, the movies will be able to pay him his salary in a short time. After Bathsheba's ablutions, we might be given a view of the Garden of Eden before the apple-picking began. Whoever opens up the Old Testament to the movies opens a very wide door.

THINKS FLORIDA IS SAFE

[Florida Times-Union, Dem.]

Shades of Thomas Jefferson, Grover Cleveland and all other democratic saints! Listen to this from the Kansas City Star: "If Mr. Bryan should get the democratic nomination for senator from Florida it would be just his luck to have Florida go republican." Well, it will be the "safety first" policy for republicans not to bet their all on Florida going republican this year or next, and for a good many nexts.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Suit has been brought against a New York hotel on behalf of a man and his wife. They complain that they were excluded from the dining room because not attired in full dress. They declare that their expulsion was viewed by many persons, including some acquaintances, and that they were deeply humiliated. They ask $100,000 apiece. Without desire to influence the jury, the hope is expressed hereby that they recover the full amounts.

HENRY JAMES

Naturally a person would hesitate to attend a purely social function if not clad in the raiment that is deemed conventional for such occasion. Eating a meal in a public hotel, a stiff price being exacted, is not properly to be considered a social function.

It is possible to be so garbed anywhere that the police will interfere. It is not deemed wise to permit an individual to make a disagreeable spectacle of himself or herself. It might cause the blocking of traffic, or be the start of a riot. This has nothing to do with the hotel guest, arrayed in a manner he deems respectable and comfortable.

The hotel management has exactly the right to state what its patrons shall wear, that a street car company would have to designate the style of tie to be worn by the male passenger, or to prohibit the entry of a woman with bobbed hair.

* * *

Suit has been begun against a motor company said to have been overpaid $9,188,561.98 by the government for war supplies. After all the talk it was high time for something of the kind.

A singular circumstance is that the concern went bankrupt. Most concerns, if over-paid in the amount mentioned, could keep their heads above water.

* * *

Recently a series of interviews appeared concerning the conduct of an individual informed that but two years of life remained. The answers were interesting, even instructive. It is impossible to tell how closely they were related to the course that each person interviewed really would pursue in the melancholy circumstances.

It is quite probable that the individual thus under the doctor's sentence, would not accept the verdict. There would be hope to the end, and to the end, planning for a more extended future on this sphere.

Recently a doctor swallowed a slow poison. He took the potion by accident, but soon realized the mistake. As a scientific man he knew that twelve days of life was all he had remaining. In his case there was no doubt, and no basis for hope.

At first he thought there might be a chance. After three days he was aware there was no chance. He was calm, doing all he could to arrange his affairs. He could have said things of vital interest, but he escaped being interviewed.

Another interesting poisoning case is reported from San Rafael. Because of the death of her husband a woman took a dose she believed would be fatal. She resisted the efforts of doctors to save her. This was at first.

A little later the glamor in the thought of joining her husband otherwhere seemed to fade. The leap into the dark did not assure a definite terminal. She is getting well, and thinks that perhaps it will not hurt her husband to wait awhile.

This winter there has been a studied effort to misrepresent the climate of southern California. Grossly false statements have been broadcasted concerning it. This is unfortunate particularly to such as may have read these libels and and been constrained not to come.

The southern California winter has not been up to standard. It has been marked by one damaging frost. There have been intervals when the wind has blown much in the style to which San Francisco is accustomed. Such zephyrs produce here great discomfort because of the cloud of dust swept in from the desert.

With this truth frankly admitted, the winter has been far superior to that which any other section has known. It has failed of being perfect, that is all. When the usual perfection has returned, it will be more appreciated than it would have been without this lapse from normal.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

It was at 7 o'clock last Monday night, just after I had been poisoned by the Bohunk maid who was found in an alley the day after our regular maid was called home by sickness—just at 7 o'clock—that I sat down and wrote a letter to Mrs. Pilgrim. Believe me, I told her where to get off and where to head in. I handed that young woman a few hot shots that she will not forget very soon. I was by turns cold and sarcastic and witty and then just for a change I'd pull out the soft stop and cry awhile.

"Too busy even to send me a card, hey?" was the tenor of my yawp.

You see, she had gone a-visiting and left me at home in this dodgasted cold, solitary, dusty ranch. I'm afraid to stay at home alone, confound it. The cracking sounds one hears shortly after 3 o'clock are just like burglars. And it is so infernally lonely that I never stay at home anyhow, but sleep at the club. And if the Borgia had ever got a poisoner like that Bohunk she need not have wasted money on drugs. And I've been trimmed four straight nights at poker, trimmed like mother's hat at that.

All this time I wasn't getting any letters from the Lady Wife. No cards even. And I could just imagine the good time she was having with her old beaux and the young belles of the city, who are nevertheless, contemporaneous with Mrs. Pilgrim, and who manage to look—just as she does—as though they were just out of their graduating dresses. And I was sore and jealous and lonely and the stenographer has a bad cold and sniffles. And so I asserted my authority. I panned that young woman of mine to a crisp.

That, as I have stated, was at 7 o'clock Monday night. And at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning I got a pack of letters a foot thick. One for each night that she has been away. I do not know what happened. I do not know why they were delayed. I do not know anything about it, except that no matter what were the doings, she sat down every night before she went to bed and wrote me a nice, long, gossipy letter, full of love and affection.

Oh, yes, there's one other thing I know. I know that I wired her not to open my letter of the night before, and I know that no woman on earth would resist opening it under such circumstances, and I know that when I next hear from her I will stand on the corner and read the letter, and the city medical supervisor will come along and think that I am in a high fever and perhaps put me in quarantine. Because Mrs. Pilgrim is perfection, but she has a hair trigger temper.

Her only fault—if she has one—is that if you joggle her a bit she blows up. Yet she always manages to pin the blame on me.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

One of the most promising substitutes is the so-called "white gold" which is an alloy of gold and one of the platinum metals. It is not attacked by nitric acid. "White gold" is used in certain classes of jewelry.

The "slowest" crop in the world is the giant bamboo of India. It blossoms only when it reaches its thirtieth year, and then dies. In the meantime it bears an enormous quantity of seed, which is eagerly gathered and used as grain by the natives.

CHURCH RELATIONS WITH YOUNG LIFE DESCRIBED

Seventy Attend Supper at Central Christian and Hear H. C. Gibson

About 70 people attended the church night supper at Central Christian church Wednesday evening, the first held since last August. This was held in the bungalow, and when the dinner had been served a prayer meeting was held around the tables, and then an adjournment was taken to the main auditorium, where the opening session of the six weeks' course in teacher training was held, with about 80 Bible school teachers and prospective teachers. There were four departments represented in the teaching, namely, primary, junior, intermediate and young people's.

At the close of the session a stirring address on "Relationship of the Church to Young Life" was made by Hugh C. Gibson, state secretary of the Sunday school council on religious education for Southern California.

He referred to the appalling condition revealed by the canvass of the Inter-Church World movement a year or so ago—more than 50 per cent of the young people of the United States without any religious training. He said, "The church is realizing its responsibility and is energetically making plans to remedy this serious condition. Lack of religious leadership in the home is primarily responsible for this state of affairs in the home, and the church must make up for this dereliction of parents."

He complimented his audience on the complete workshop preparing in the new building, and lauded the spirit of progress evinced by the large turnout of those willing to teach.

CHUNKS OF JUNKET FROM VALLEY TRIP

Little Things That Drove the Jinx Into the Ditch Enroute

Mayor Spencer Robinson lived up to his nickname, "Glendale's Singing Mayor," on the chamber of commerce booster trip yesterday. When the program seemed to lag a little the mayor was called on for a few words and he always obliged. Occasionally he talked, sometimes he sang and other times he just grinned at the people. No matter what he did he was a hit.

Glendale's boosters thoroughly enjoyed themselves in Zelzah. The Women's club had charge of the reception and they opened the club house. Boosters fair, boosters fat, boosters lean, boosters old and boosters young, went out on the dance floor and shook a wicked hoof to the music of the Shrine club orchestra.

In Van Nuys the boosters had some competition. There was a small circus showing and in the midst of the booster meeting when the main street was packed with people and automobiles the fire department was called out and sent the people scurrying to the sidewalk.

When the invitation was sent out to feminine Glendale to join the booster expedition the officials in charge of the motorcade did not know that they would be the chief attraction of the parade. Drivers of motorcars in the parade vied with each other in filling their machines with attractive Glendale feminity. The citizens of the various towns visited were unanimous that Glendale leads in something even in feminine pulchritude.

Some one had evidently given the small boys a bum steer in Van Nuys. When the motorcade approached the boys were out in force, waiting and before the machines had stopped they were inquiring for the man who was going to buy ice cream cones. Some joker pointed out John L. Watson of the Glendale Sheet Metal works who inturn passed the buck to the mayor. The near riot was finally quelled by letting the boys scramble for pennies.

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

CADILLAC

It has all along, of course, been agreeably evident to us that the new Type 61 Cadillac, in a number of important respects, is an even better Cadillac than we have ever produced before.

But it is pleasant, nevertheless, to have our own judgment of the new Cadillac so widely and wonderfully confirmed by owners, who have observed the car's quality in actual road-performance.

They inform us delightedly that it reveals a wholly new degree of road-steadiness and riding-smoothness. They are scarcely less enthusiastic over its superb power and its swift and easy acceleration.

Especially if one is familiar with the past splendid performance of the Cadillac, it is difficult to realize that such improvements can exist, but they do exist, to the delight of owners, in the new Type 61 Cadillac.

P. T. A. OF HIGH HEAR OF WORK

One-fourth of Membership Attend Meeting of Organization

About one-fourth of the 400 enrolled as members of the high school P.-T.A. were present at the monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon over which Mrs. E. B. Wyman presided.

Dr. Bromley Oxnam, who had been advertised to speak had to cancel the engagement but it proved an interesting session nevertheless, as heads of departments in the high school were called upon to tell something of their work about which parents are always concerned. The devotion of each one to his department was proved by the fact that each considered his or hers the most important in the school. If students are indifferent in the face of such enthusiasm, it will not be the fault of teachers.

Those who responded to call were Miss Wilhelmina Hobush, director of sewing and millinery; J. Rhea Baker, head of the commercial department; Miss Maude Soper of the department of history; Earl T. Brown, department of science; Mrs. Dora Gibson, department of music; Miss Isabel Stevens, languages; Miss Ellen Hanson, domestic science; Miss Jennie Y. Freeman, English; Arthur Oliver, mechanical arts.

Mrs. L. T. Rowley, chairman of finance, presented the needs of the newly organized high school band and the fact that $100 additional is needed to finance it. Donations were called for and members seemed to think there would be little difficulty in raising the amount.

On behalf of the association Mrs. Wyman presented to the school a handsome pennant suitable to be carried in any parade in which representatives of the school may take part. It was of black material with a red border and red letters to carry out the school colors.

Preceding the meeting tea and wafers were served during a social hour. During the business session a nominating committee was named composed of Mrs. A. H. Brown, Mrs. A. S. Chase, Mrs. H. W. Yarick, Mrs. Riley of Eagle Rock, and Mr. George O. Lockwood.

The president explained that the association is entitled to send 25 delegates to the district meeting to be held in Los Angeles, April 28 and 29, and asked members to volunteer as representatives.

Mrs. Wyman has been nominated as parliamentarian of the district and will be voted upon at that time.

There is more or less moonshine in the astrology business.

F. GRAYSON SAYRE, GLENDALE ARTIST, TO SHOW WORK

First Exhibition of Sculptors' Guild Begins April 25th

The first art exhibition by the Sculptors Guild of Southern California, to be held April 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29 at the chamber of commerce, not as previously stated, will be marked by an exhibition of paintings by Glendale's own artist, F. Grayson Sayre, who is perhaps one of the best masters of desert and mountain scenery in the southwest.

Mr. Sayre lives with his family in Glendale, except when he is out on the desert or in the mountains, sketching.

The pictures which he will show at the forthcoming art exhibition are representative of the desert around Castle Dome, near Yuma, and some mountains of Southern California. Some of these pictures have received high praise in exhibitions in San Francisco and elsewhere in California. There is a ready audience for anything he paints.

Among the plastic subjects to be shown is "The Drunkard," by Harry Davis. The statue has just been completed and is a realistic portrayal of a figure familiar enough in the streets of factory towns before the 18th amendment became law.

WORK IN SOUTH AMERICA IS TOLD

Elder Montgomery of Adventist Church Tells of Advance of Faith

One of the largest audiences that ever assembled in the Seventh Day Adventist church, corner Isabel and California, listened to a most interesting and instructive stereopticon lecture on South America Tuesday night by Elder O. Montgomery, vice president of the general conference of the Seventh Day Adventist church, and a resident of Buenos Aires, South America.

Elder Montgomery is making a tour of the United States with the sole purpose of enlightening the people upon the great need of spreading the Gospel of good cheer to the benighted regions of South America, and more specifically known as the "great saucer basin of the Amazon."

Elder Montgomery prefaced his most interesting address by saying: "I am going to tell you about the good things of South America, and not devote my entire time, as many lecturers do, to the bad side of this great country, which we are prone to believe is much larger than North America."

Pictures thrown upon the screen gave splendid views of the larger cities, with their beautiful modern structures, paved streets and thoroughfares that very much resembled California's good roads and tree-lined thoroughfares. Then he turned on the other pictures—the ones which show the other side of this vast expanse of undeveloped and semi-civilized region, and in forcible language impressed his audience with the great responsibilities that rest upon the people of our country in making it possible to carry the gospel to the vast plains of Brazil, Bolivia and Peru. He gave a sort sketch of a trip he made which extended over eight months, through the wilds of the "saucer" country with its teeming population of unclad Indians, whose god is made of stone and wood.

"We traveled for weeks and never heard of a protestant church," said the speaker. "Along the coast line a few of the stronger churches of the world have established missions on a small scale, but little has been attempted in the interior regions. Our church has several missions and schools in this vast wilderness and is doing great good. In some places we have taken the Indians, educated them and made teachers of them. They are bright, learn readily and are anxious to embrace the true religion of the gospel. The Adventists are doing great work in South Africa. We have the only Portuguese publishing house in that section—in fact, the only exclusive one of its kind in the world. We are extending our usefulness as rapidly as we can, but the need of more missionaries and money is appalling.

"On our long trip we were well treated. We had been told that it was almost sure death to attempt the trip, but we escaped without any trouble, except that I was thrown from a mule on one of the narrow trails and miraculously escaped death."

One hundred and twenty pictures were thrown upon the screen, which were in themselves most interesting and instructive. Elder Montgomery is a very able minister of the gospel and it is hoped he will come this way for a longer stay.

Sheepherding

By JOHN BRECK

Has shepherding changed since the days of Abraham? Times change, and places, and men change with them, but not sheep. A bit more stiltiness in the legs, or blockiness in the body, or length in the wool does not alter their elemental sheepishness. Nothing, not even the camel, seems more persistently archaic—unless it be a shepherd.

A heavy snow in the mountains has driven one down to the borders of civilization in my valley. He is a big man, lean but with the shoulders of Atlas, red-haired, grizzled of beard. Bent on his staff, which sustains his gaze fixed on his flock, he becomes a sort of human tripod, apparently motionless for hours on end. A little changed as to coat from earliest times, he manages to preserve his air of anachronism by leggings of great-ribbed corduroy, which never came from anywhere but north of the Tweed.

Whether a burr on his tongue would corroborate that guess I cannot tell, for the spell of the silences is on him. His dogs do. There are three of the proper black-and-tan bob-tails, half the size of the collie we know. "The bigger the dog the sorer the foot" is the true herder's explanation of them. They range far out, closing in the stragglers or heading the leaders in obedience to a whistle and a wave of his arm.

The fourth is tawny and gives most of its attention to gopher holes. Once, finding it deaf to his signal, he pelted it with a stone; it mistook his directing arm-wave for another and fled headlong to a lad who was shooting jack rabbits. He laid down his gun and carried out the order himself while it barked joyfully about his heels.

He talks as one relieved to find any one to talk with. "Dandy's just a pup; mebbe he'll learn. Sure, herding's fun. No, sheep don't know anything, but you don't have to bother much with them—'cepting when there's a moon—then they ramble, same as the deer. The rest of the time you just start them off at dawn; come 11 o'clock it's nooning and they lie down till 4. Then they feed till dark again. I like it better in the hills, though; there's more hunting. My gun? It's for coyotes, but you get 10 cents bounty for every pair of rabbit ears."

So he rattles on, giving you sketchy details of his life uninterrupted by the silent man. But a quizzical twitch at the corner of a shaggy eyebrow might be meaning, "Bob's a pup his ain sel'; happen he'll larn." Only it speaks in a dialect men knew far longer ago.

FARMERS' TELEPHONES

In August, 1921, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced that there were 2,508,002 telephones on American farms, or one telephone to every 2½ farms. In Europe there are practically no farmers' telephones.

The sap of the kerosene-wood tree, which grows in Australia, is in the nature of oil. If the tree is cut down when it has been raining for months and is still raining hard the saturated wood will burst into flame as soon as a match is put to it.

SUNDRIES SLASHED AT GLENDALE PHARMACY

Stuart's Opens Fire on High Prices With Good Goods

A slashing sale of "sundry sundries" is now being conducted by the Glendale Pharmacy—Stuart's, at the corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue. Ever since its opening day this concern has been known for its honest goods and fair prices. Right at the outset this firm began treating the public as it would be treated, and it has followed this method consistently ever since.

In this sale everything in the way of sundries will go at greatly reduced prices. There are manicure sets, face powders and other toilet preparations, stationery, thermos bottles, clothes and hair brushes—in fact, everything in the sundry department of this store.

Ice cream is sold in any quantity and a special of chocolates at 50 and 40 cents a pound will be made throughout this sale. And there are a number of real bargains in cigars of different makes and prices. The intention of this company in putting on this sale is to give the people unusual bargains—bargains on which they can save money.

A certain English judge was trying a case where a dealer sued a steamship company for the loss of some pigs in a fire on board a cross-channel boat.

It came out in the evidence that the steamer had a large deck load and it was this that suffered the greatest damage.

The judge began his charge to the jury, commencing as follows:

"Gentlemen, to put those pigs on deck was a rash act, but to fry them was a rasher!"

BONE DRY CLUB WILLARD BAT MEN TO MEET

Live Spark Men Gather Today at Casa Verdugo With Local Agents

The Willard storage battery distributors and service station operators of Southern California are meeting today at the Casa Verdugo cafe. The session started bright and early and will continue all day.

This organization is known as the "Bone Dry club," from the fact that the Willard Threaded Rubber batteries are shipped and carried in stock "bone dry," which means that their life does not start until the time the battery is delivered to the consumer.

Mr. Wolff, distribution manager for the Willard battery in Southern California, will be the principal speaker of this convention. The Cizek Auto-Electric company, Colorado and Brand, of which Messrs. Cizek and Kuhns are the proprietors, are showing the visitors the very best kind of a time.

A pompous man entered a restaurant and beckoned the waiter. "I want a chop," he said, importantly.

"Yessir," said the waiter.

"See that it is grilled over a quick fire. Tell them to have a piece of garlic placed on it for a few seconds."

"Yessir," said the waiter.

"And—waiter, I don't want any sauce or gravy on it. Just half a grilled tomato. You understand."

"Yessir," said the waiter.

"Perfectly?"

"Perfectly, sir,' said the waiter and moved away.

A moment later he reached the speaking tube. "One mutt!" he bawled.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

WHAT TAD WAS DOING IN THE BROAD FIELD

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

I do wish the man who flew that airplane could have heard what the wild things said about him. He'd have been a little ashamed of the way he'd scared tht poor wild geese, but he'd have laughed till his sides ached at the woodsfolks' funny notions. Every one who talked about him added something. And they talked a lot!

You know what the Grey Ganders said? Well, Tad Coon heard some of it when he was just waking up from his winter's sleep in his hickory tree, and some from Dr. Muskrat when he went down for his first spring drink at the Pond. "I've got to get to bed early this morning," the old fellow explained when he finished his telling. "You see I was up all day. I'll see you again when I wake up tonight." And he dove to his muskrat home, shaking his head and murmuring, "Something is certainly going to happen—and very soon."

"I'm not going back to bed," grumbled Tad. "It's too much trouble to climb; I'm too stiff from being curled up tight as a snake in an egg for months on end. I'll just mosey along the fence till I find a nice grassy spot to lie in."

But he moseyed farther than that. He moseyed up to Tommy Peele's chicken-coop and got himself an egg for breakfast. 'Cause he just couldn't bear to get all wet and cold splashing round after a frog. And then he moseyed back to tht thicket in the Broad Field, where Silvertip the Fox had hidden Tommy's stolen chickens. There he curled his nice woolly blanket of a tail over his cold handy-paws and went off to sleep again.

He had hardly begun to snore, softly but soundly, as the woodfolk do, before who should stir on the branch above him but Bobby Robin. Bobby took his head from under his wing, blinked, and shook the creases out of his feathers. Then he grinned beak-wide. "Cheer up! Wake up! Dawn is here!" he shouted to all the other birds. "And when the sun comes out the worm goes in. Time to start hunting." (This is so. The angleworms all come out at night to feed among the grass-stems, but they slide back in a great hurry as soon as they think any one can see them).

"Hello, Flutter-feather, I'm glad to see you back."

"Mm? Eh? What?" murmured sleepy Tad, kicking off his tail-cover. "S'post I'm dreaming again? No, Hello, Flutter-feather, I'm glad to see you back." It didn't take him half the day to wake up this time, because he hadn't been asleep very long. "I was half afraid the Headless Hunter had caught you." (Meaning the airplane). That's how he began. But just listen to how he went on!

NEXT STORY—TAD TELLS A LIVELY STORY.

PENDROY DRY GOODS CO. NEARS OPENING DAY

Store at Corner Brand and Harvard Is Being Decorated Inside

The finishing touches are now being put on the excellent new home that is being erected for the Pendroy Dry Goods company at the northeast corner of Brand and Harvard. During the past few weeks the workmen on this building have been toiling like beavers in order to get the building ready for the opening date which is scheduled for the very near future.

While this building has been in the course of construction, the management of the Pendroy Dry Goods company has not been idle. Mr. and Mrs. Pendroy and other members of the firm returned some time ago from a trip to many of the prominent eastern cities, where they spent several weeks buying goods for the new store. These goods are now en route to Glendale and will arrive within a short time. Just as soon as the store building is ready for occupancy these goods will be placed in position and at the very earliest possible date the opening of this establishment, the largest in Glendale, will be announced.

D. L. Ludwig, display and advertising manager for this firm, arrived in Glendale a few days ago from East Liverpool, Ohio, and is now getting everything ready for carrying out his work in connection with the store. All kinds of favorable rumors in connection with this new store are falling upon the ears of Mr. Ludwig. He says the people of Glendale signify their intention of giving this dry goods store a royal welcome. Also, he says, in every way this new store will be right up-to-the-minute. Each department will be complete in itself, and the entire establishment will be rounded out into one of the finest suburban dry goods establishments in Southern California.

The prices, says Mr. Ludwig, will be as low or lower than those at the Los Angeles stores. The overhead—rent, etc., will be less than in Los Angeles, and this company intends to give its customers the benefit of this saving.

It's difficult for a man to keep cool when he is between two fires.

FISHING TACKLE'S TEASING TICKLE TIMELY

Cornwell & Kelty Have Laid in Big Stock of Lures and Rods

"Fishing season is drawing nigh," said Albert Cornwell of the Cornwell & Kelty, 107 South Brand boulevard, this morning. "May 1, which marks the opening of trout season in Southern California, will be here before the anglers of Glendale are aware of it. For this reason they should lose no time in preparing for the opening day. We carry everything in the way of fishing tackle, flies, salmon eggs, rods, reels, etc. We issue fishing licenses and are at the service of local anglers with the very latest information regarding fishing in different parts of the country.

"From the reports that are coming in we would say that the chances for an excellent fishing season are unusually bright. The high water that prevailed up to this time is rapidly becoming lower and by the opening day of the season everything should be right for a dandy day."

This firm has made a wonderful growth during the past few months. The progress has been so marked that it has been found necessary to enlarge the storage space at the rear of the store. This will be finished in a day or so and as soon as completed the present stock will be greatly enlarged.

BURBANK FOLKS ATTEND STATE P. E. O. MEET

Local Women Recognized by Appointments on Committees

BURBANK, April 20.—The state convention of the P. E. O. which was held at the Raymond hotel in South Pasadena three days of last week was attended each day by large delegations from Burbank. The election of officers included the re-election of Mrs. Edith Story as corresponding secretary while Mrs. Elizabeth Knox was honored with the appointment of a place on the state by-laws committee. There are but few committees and it is a distinction to be appointed to a place on one of them, and with the recognition again of the efficiency of Mrs. Story, Burbank members seem to have been appreciated.

On Wednesday evening a number of men from Burbank went over to enjoy the special entertainment which was arranged for the husbands of the members. The officers elected were president, Mrs. Maude Clock, Long Beach; first vice president, Mrs. Ollie Cramer, Los Angeles; second vice president, Mrs. Elsie Roemer, Oakland; organizer, Mrs. Katheryn Sehren, San Jose; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Story; treasurer, Mrs. LaBelle Townsend, Los Angeles. Several distinguished visitors were present. One of them was Mrs. Mary Allen Stafford who is spending the winter in Long Beach and who is one of the seven founders of the order, and Mrs. Bertha Clark Hughes, of Nebraska, supreme president.

BURBANK FACTORY FOR ALUMINUM IS GROWING

BURBANK, April 20.—The aluminum factory is going up without hindrance. The main walls on the front and sides are about finished, in fact about two-thirds of the brick work is completed and material is now reaching the grounds for the foundation and for the roof which will be of tile.

It is said that two car loads of machinery are now on the way here from the east and in order to avoid reloading, the work of placing part of the roof is being pushed as rapidly as possible. When this is done and the machinery installed, the remainder of the roof will be put on.

The contract requires that the building shall be finished by July 1 and all indications are that there will be no disappointment in this respect.

BURBANK CHINA FACTORY BUSY

BURBANK, April 20.—Work at the china factory is going along very nicely and with a steady increase in production. Mr. Morgan says that last week they shipped out a car load of stock besides many barrels and other small containers, and he said they were taking on more help constantly. He is general salesman and spends most of his time out on the road getting orders which it keeps the factory busy filling.

Mr. Morgan and his family are moving into one of the Grinnel apartmetns which they will occupy until their new house is finished. The foundation for this is being put in now.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH OF BURBANK WORKS HARD

Eighty Men Attend Easter Day Bible Class Services

BURBANK, April 20. — Almost did the men's Bible class of the Christian church succeed in getting the 100 attendance Easter morning which they had set as their goal. Eighty men were present and every one of them seemed glad to be there.

It had been suggested that this interesting and interested class be made non-denominational and at this time when so many were present, the matter was put to the entire class by R. A. Powell, president, with the result that practically every one voted to have it so while no one expressed a sentiment against it.

Charles L. Munro, accompanied by Professor Moore, gave a solo. A quartet composed of Messrs. W. M. Myers, Powell, Munro and Dale gave two splendid numbers and Dr. Ervin, Homes Davis and Earl Groshong entertained with instrumental music.

For some time, a drive has been on to secure members for this class and to get an attendance of 100 for the Easter morning classhour and four men were made captains with a prize of a silver cup given by Mr. Swanson to the one who should come in with the largest number of members. G. A. Walston was the winning captain. The others were W. M. Myers, L. W. Hammer and James Chapel.

At the conclusion of the meeting the class went across the street, taking a stand in front of the Santa Rosa hotel where they were photographed for the state church paper.

BURBANK VOTES SECOND SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

BURBANK, April 20.—With a vote of five to one, the second school bond election in the past two weeks, carried, Friday. There were 154 who expressed their wish for the bond issue and but 29 who voted against it. This last election was for the issuance of bonds for $100,000 for the building of three grade schools in three different sections of the city. The election two weeks ago was for $90,000 to be used in completing fully, the high school now being erected.

H. W. Rouscup was the inspector at the election and Mrs. Priscilla Griswold and Mrs. Helen Forsythe were the judges.

Mrs. Roy Campbell of Magnolia and Pioneer avenues entertained last week a number of friends at a delightful lunch and later at bridge, Mrs. Carl Kahl won the first prize and Mrs. Earl Anders received the consolation prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Farley, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Dodge, Huron D. Corthell and George Gusti of San Bernardino spent the week-end at Palmdale on the Dodge ranch.

Mrs. Fred Calvert has just returned to the Santa Rosa hotel from a two months' visit with friends and relatives in Terre Haute, Ind., her former home.

BURBANK SUNRISE SERVICE DRAWS MULTITUDE

Hundreds Gathered in Sheltered Canyon for Song Service

BURBANK, April 20.—In a sheltered canyon of the eternal hills, more than a thousand persons gathered Sunday morning at sunrise to hear the inspiring program which had been prepared for the uplift of the people of Burbank and surrounding country.

While the soft light of early morning spread over the valley and gradually crept up the hillsides while the birds filled the gray dawn with their first notes and the blossoms along the way responded with dew-drawn fragrance to the joy of Easter morn, the thrilling notes of a cornet rang out from the hills in clear reverberation as the opening number of the service conducted near the head of Magnolia avenue at the base of the mountains which set so picturesquely as a background for Burbank.

Hundreds of persons in automobiles and by foot, gathered in the canyon just beneath the green-draped, white cross and listened to the songs and prayers, the solos and choruses and joined in the congregational singing. Every part of the program was beautiful.

The cornet solo by Mr. Samuel Porter first drew the attention as his clear notes rang out from the hillside and over the valley. This was a particularly attractive feature as the player was unseen and the solo seemed to be a call to partake of the joy of Easter.

Eleanor Hornby Woodford was a delight from the first note until the last, not only through her wonderful voice but because of her charming and gracious personality. With simplicity but with deep feeling she sang the beautiful "Hosanna" by Granier. Clearly, in full true tone, every note rang out through the morning air in beautiful harmonies. This vocal artist who has a country-wide reputation for her gift of musical voice, resided in Burbank some years ago and it was with great interest and pleasure her former friends listened to her and enjoyed the voice which has so much improved and which has entertained thousands over the country.

The "Hallelujah Chorus" given by the Choral club under the direction of Charles L. Munro was splendidly rendered and with the volumn of its sixty voices filled the canyon with the glorious strains of this thrilling chorus. In the absence of Mrs. Hart, the regular Choral club accompanist, Professor F. S. Moore of the high school filled this position most excellently.

The string trio, Dr. V. P. Ervin, Homer Davis and Vern Isom with Mrs. Ervin as accompanist, gave a delightful number in which natural artistry and scientific skill combined to give the large, open-air audience a musical treat.

The invocation was given by Rev. Stevenson; the prayer by Rev. Parker of the Christian church. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. Parker of the Episcopal church while Rev. Allen presided over the services and pronounced the benediction.

The Ministerial Association, the Woman's and Choral clubs and the Chamber of Commerce succeeded with greatest success in giving to Burbank a spelndid and inspiring was made in Calvary cemetery.

P. E. EXPRESS STRIKES CAR

BURBANK, April 20.—Saturday noon while driving north on Olive avenue, L. M. Moler, painter, living at the Marion hotel, had his car struck about in the middle by a Pacific Electric express car. Moler suffered a broken arm and a scratched face. He was taken to the Burbank hospital. The car was badly damaged.

CHILD DROWNED IN WATER CO. DITCH

BURBANK, April 20.—The result of the coroner's inquest held in the Fillbach undertaking rooms Friday morning over the body of three-year-old John Pershing McHugh was a verdict by the jury that death resulted from accidental drowning in an open ditch left so by the Los Angeles Water company. No formal charge of responsibility was made. It was brought out at the inquest that a main water pipe on Hyperion street had been leaking and in order to make repairs three large holes, each several feet deep had been dug and left open. These were in the middle of the street. On one side of them a slight protection of boards, almost high enough for a man to walk under without stooping, had been erected and on the other side there was no protection. It was in one of these holes that the child was found after a search of 24 hours.

The jurymen were Messrs. Mumford, Bricker, Farrar, Comber, Skeen and Kittendorf. The funeral services were held Saturday forenoon at 842 Figueroa street with A. C. Fillbach in charge. Interment was made in Salvary cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Farley of Farley court, entertained in honor of the 75th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Farley's grandfather, G. F. Lindley of 77 Angeleno avenue. Fourteen relatives and friends were present.

JACKSON DRYING PLANT MAKES BIG TURN-OVER

Business Increases One Hundred Per Cent in Interstate Traffic

BURBANK, April 20.—An increase of business of 100 percent in March over February is the fine report of the Genevieve Jackson incorporated dehydrating plant. The increase in orders requires the running of two shifts, from 8 o'clock to 4:30 and from that time to midnight, and while in December four persons took care of all the work, including that in the office, factory and sales departments, it now requires seventeen. Nine women are employed in the factory and the plant has a salesman working out from Burbank, one out of Monrovia, one out of San Francisco and a special agent in Chicago.

In response to a demand from the public for a brannie which was not so sweet as the famous sweet brannies, the concern is now making a product which is slightly sweetened with honey only, but which has an agreeable honey flavor. Also, dehydrated ripe olives are produced and a firm in Los Angeles which caters to the health foods advocates, takes a ton after it is dried. It is said this food retains its flavor but loses its acidity in the process of dehydrating.

The dehydrating factory is now making shipments by freight to Indianapolis, Chicago, San Diego, San Francisco and Portland, while express shipments go to Vancouver, British Columbia and parcels post all over the country.

NEW CITY FATHERS ARE SWORN INTO OFFICE

BURBANK, April 20.— On Monday night an extra meeting of the city board of trustees was held when an official canvass of the election ballots was made after which the new members of the board were sworn into office. City Clerk Webster was the official who inducted them into their new position and they went in one at a time, Crawford, Watson, Jackson and Neilson. The appointive city officials which include the marshal, engineer, street superintendent, building inspector and others which the board may think it necessary to have, may or may not remain in office according as the board desires. They go in for no specified term but until such a time as the board wishes to replace them. City Clerk Webster and City Treasurer Fischer were elected two years ago to serve a term of four years. Because of the resignation of Building Inspector Bond, the board will be obliged to make an appointment for this position at once. J. C. Crawford was elected chairman which practically makes him mayor. The board adjourned to meet the following night in regular session.

BURBANK PERSONALS

Mrs. L. M. Rothenburg has returned from Tulare where she went to attend the funeral of her brother who was drowned in Nevada.

Miss Fay Knox of Central avenue spent her vacation last week with her aunt, Mrs. Earl Eaton of Los Angeles

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Scott of 903 San Fernando boulevard went to San Diego for a few days' visit.

Mrs. Carolyn Lehman of Angeleno avenue has accepted a position as secretary to Mr. Pardieck of the dehydrating company.

Last Thursday a happy day was spent by Mesdames Riley, Fraser, Fitzsimmons, Welch and Stroude in a hiking expedition in the mountains. They climbed to the top of one where they could look over Sunland and to the snow capped peaks beyond.

Mrs. Jane Burger of Westwood, California, has been the guest of Mrs. Lucile Graham of Magnolia avenue. Both of them attended the P. E. O. convention at Pasadena. They and Mrs. Drury, now teaching in the high school, were teaching together last year in the Westwood school.

BURBANK, April 20.—At a meeting of the Realty Board held Monday noon when a luncheon was served by the Woman's club in their rooms, one of the important matters taken up was that of retaining the Sacred Films company in this city. Dr. Huntington of this company says they are now renting from month to month the property on which they are located which has been subdivided by the Woodland Heights company, and as the Films corporation wishes to make permanent improvements they are seeking a site which they know they may have for an indefinite time. It is said it now has about $50,000 to expend on permanent buildings and improvements and their payroll is about $1000 per month and it was the opinion of the board that efforts be made to keep the concern in Burbank. A number of sites were proposed which might be leased to the company for a term of years and a committee composed of W. R. Ramsey, J. D. Radcliff and C. B. Fischer was appointed to confer with the management of the Films company and render any assistance possible.

Any small boy in his first trousers feels sorry for his mother.

MODERN ICE PLANT UNDER ERECTION AT BURBANK

New Process of Freezing Allows for Removal of Impurities

BURBANK, April 20.—The machinery is being installed in the new ice plant which is being erected by C. A. Pipes, Ward Shelton and Harry Dunning at the corner of First street and Angeleno avenue.

This machinery is absolutely the last word in equipment for this kind of a factory. It is said by the York California Construction company, which is putting the machinery in, that so far as is known there is but one other on the Pacific coast which has all the latest patented works this Burbank plant has, and that one is the Union Ice company at Hollywood.

The system of freezing the water into ice that is to be employed here, is a new process and is known as the high pressure, raw water ice system. By this invention in the making of ice, air is injected into the bottom of the can and the water agitated until it is completely frozen. This constant agitation forcess the impurities to the center and forms what is called a core, which is pumped out and clean water substituted and then this is frozen.

The old system of freezing was a low pressure method in which distilled water was used. This was much the same as using steam from boilers although it was purified to a certain extent. The newer method permits of a cleaner and also cheaper ice.

It was though that about six weeks would be required to install the machinery and as the work has been in progress for two weeks, the plant will be producing in a month.

FATHERS' NIGHT AT GRAMMAR SCHOOL

BURBANK, April 20.—A program of unusual interest has been prepared for the Parent-Teachers' Association to be held Thursday night at the grammar school. It is held at night rather than in the day as usual because it is going to be "Fathers' Night." The principle speaker will be Arthur C. Brown, a member of the county board of education and principal of the McKinley school in Los Angeles. His subject will be "School Problems."

The first number on the program will be a selection from the orchestra made up of pupils from the high and the grammar schools. This will be followed by music by the high school glee club and then an exercise by the Boy Scouts. A two piano duet will be rendered by Professor F. S. Moore and Professor H. S. White. After the address by Professor Brown, the general discussion on Parent-Teachers work will be led by Mrs. Clara Swain, Mrs. Elizabeth Knox, Rev. L. G. Parker and Mr. H. B. Thomas. Refreshments will be served.

TRAFFIC TANGLE ON VALLEY ROAD

BURBANK, April 20.—A little traffic mixup occurred Saturday morning on West San Fernando boulevard in which a Dodge car belonging to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Burns of Rancho Toluco near Lankershim, a Ford sedan driven by Miss Evelyn Burgess of San Fernando and a Sperry truck struck the rear of the Burns car which was then pushed onto the Ford car, swinging that out against a truck drawn up to the curbing. Mrs. Burns said when their car was struck it threw her forward with such a jerk it nearly unjointed her neck.

Frank Taylor, who is a brother of John F. Taylor is paying him a visit. He is vice-president of the First National bank in Richmond, Indiana.

Silas Lewis and Henry Gehem and son have left for the east, Mr. Lewis going to Youngstown, O., and Mr. Gehem going on to New York City.

TUJUNGA GREETS DELEGATES OF GLENDALE

T. N. T. Club Meeting Plans for Dance on April 28

TUJUNGA, April 20.—At 9:30 yesterday morning, exactly on schedule time, delegates from the Glendale chamber of commerce, on a junket trip through the Monte Vista and San Fernando valleys, arrived in Tujunga. The party was met in Golindrina park, at the foot of Sunset boulevard, where speeches were given and music furnished by an orchestra brought with the party. Those who spoke included W. H. Reeves, city manager of Glendale; Spencer Robinson, mayor of Glendale; John S. Knox, vice president of the Tujunga chamber of commerce, and Wilmot Parcher of Tujunga, who was the first mayor of Glendale.

T. N. T. Club to Give Dance

A meeting of the T. N. T. club was held Tuesday evening in the basement of the church at which final plans for the first club dance, to be given on Friday, April 28, were perfected, and other important business transacted.

Blue and gold, the club colors, are to be used extensively in the elaborate decorative program that is being worked out for the dance. A four-piece orchestra which is considered to be among the best has been secured and other features are being planned which will make this dance one of the most brilliant social affairs of the season. Admission is to be by invitation only.

The club will meet next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock to assist in excavating the unfinished portion of the chruch basement. The next regular meeting will be held next Tuesday evening.

Greer Greets Thugs

J. C. Greer, proprietor of a barber shop on Sunset boulevard, is still suffering from the attack of a couple of amateur hold-up artists last Saturday night. Mr. Greer was just closing up his shop when two young fellows, evidently under the influence of liquor, entered and, while being shaved, saw a large amount of money in his possession.

After the men had gone Greer locked his door and took a short cut to his home on Pine street, through the lot next to the yards of the Independent Lumber company on San Ysidro street. There is a small pile of loose lumber at one corner of the yard, and while passing this the two men, who had followed him, jumped out and hit him across the face with a heavy board. Although badly cut, Greer was not knocked out, and jumping up, he grabbed another board and started after the thugs. They went! The last Greer heard of his assailants was the noise of their machine going wide open down Sunset boulevard. He still has his roll.

"Daddy" Wornum Dead

At noon yesterday, "Daddy" Wornum passed away at his home on North Sunset boulevard. Mr. Wornum passed away at an advanced age and after a life spent in active religious work. He was one of the best known of Tujunga's residents and was the "parson" in John S. McGroarty's Millionaires' club. Mr. and Mrs. Wornum had lately founded the Gospel Mission, and he had taken a great interest in its growth.

La Crescenta

LA CRESCENTA, April 20.—The motor caravan, composed of members of the Glendale chamber of commerce, passed through Montrose and La Crescenta, as scheduled, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Many citizens and business men of Montrose were out to greet them as they passed by. In La Crescenta the travelers were greeted by members of the La Crescenta Improvement association, some motoring as far as Tujunga with the motorcade, where they were met by several hundred citizens. Prominent among the travelers were Mayor Spencer Robinson, President Val Hollister of the chamber of commerce, W. M. Towman, Glendale manager for the Automobile club, Dr. Jessie Russell and City Manager Reeves. The residents of La Crescenta and Montrose are justly proud of Glendale—its remarkable growth in the past few years, and it is the concensus of opinion that merchandise can be purchased much more reasonably and with greater comfort in Glendale than in any of the larger cities.

The Glendale union high school bond election will be held at the La Crescenta school May . There are 25 pupils from this district registered at the Glendale union high school this year.

The county volunteer fire department of La Crescenta was called out Tuesday afternoon to extinguish a brush fire on the George Fusenot ranch at the head of Pennsylvania avenue. The fire started just behind Mr. Fusenot's home and burned over five acres. C. J. Young, who took the fire trailer, was assisted by Chas. Waste, A. Toske, C. Loyd and men from the Bissell ranch. After May 1 it will be necessary to take out fire permits.

Mrs. F. H. Anderson of Montrose was hostess to the Tuesday Bridge club at luncheon last Tuesday. The member and guest tables included Mmes. Richard Dewey, Thomas Neilson, Harriet Bastable, Charles Turk, Edward N. Nettleton and Marjorie Adams. The out-of-town guests included Mrs. Walter Overell of Los Angeles and Mrs. William L. Veeck of Chicago. High scores were made by Mrs. Dewey and Mrs. Turk. Mrs. Anderson was assisted by Misses Winona and Marjory Neilson of Montrose.

The home of C. Passmore on Montrose avenue is nearing completion and its attractiveness adds much to the immediate vicinity.

A. Craft has opened his new grocery store on Los Angeles and Honolulu avenues. Mr. Craft was formerly with the grocery firm of Sears & Craft of Los Angeles avenue. Besides groceries, Mr. Craft handles feed and fuel and makes daily deliveries.

THE TRUTH AT THE LAST

If I should die tonight and I should hear
Such eulogy pronounced above my bier
As I have heard above some friends of mine,
Whose little candlelight was made to shine
As a great sun up in the noonday sky—

If I should die tonight and have to lie
And listen to such words as often said
Above the helpless and defenseless dead,
Such words of fulsome flattery and praise
Piled thick enough in eulogy to raise
The dead for one last shameful blush to hear
Such undeserved words above his bier,—

I say if I should die tonight and lie
Quite still and hear how wonderful was I,
And hear those flattering phrases smoothly drip
From some funereal speaker's tongue and lip,
Picturing me in life a very saint,
Which I may say in very truth I aint—

I say if I should die and some one speak
Those flattering words, I know my cold, pale cheek
Would blush quite red; and when he spoke of me
As lying there, I'd like to rise and be Alive again and look him in the eyes
And say: "Not so! He is the one who lies!"
And if I might do that, when I had said
My say I'd be content to drop back dead.

KENNY MUSIC CO. RECEIVES BIG RECORD STOCK

Includes Dance, Song Hits; Opera and Concert Selections

A dandy big stock of new Columbia records has just been received by the Kenny Music shop, 203 North Brand boulevard, and are now at the disposal of the grafonola fans of Glendale. These records include dance and song hits, opera and concert selections and instrumental features.

"Put on that dance number and let 'er go full tilt," said Mr. Kenny this morning, "and the floor may be the best in the world or the stubble grass of a western lawn—it won't make any difference. For the music of the Columbia simply compels the feet to go—they can't keep still.

"Popular orchestras, that dancing couples flock to dance to, make records exclusively for the Columbia. On the new process Columbia record every note the boys play is reproduced so clearly that you might they were right there. If you want to learn what people are taking to in dance music, follow the crowd and you will see them go to the doors of Columbia dealers and walking out with large bundles of dance records under their arms. They realize that Columbia has the very newest and best tunes there are to dance to. Join the trail of Columbia fans and keep up with the music they are dancing to now. All of the latest Columbia records may now be heard at our store. It is no trouble to show goods."

The mammoth Columbia sale is still in progress at the Kenny Music shop. During this sale any machine in the store will be delivered to any home in Glendale, the remainder of the cost to be paid in easy weekly or monthly installments. All of the machines in this store have been reduced in price, which puts them on a pre-war basis. Also during the sale, a number of used machines have been placed on sale. These are practically as good as new, and in connection with them the price has been almost cut in half.

GRESSETT UPSETS SUNDAY'S ENGLISH

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—Billy Sunday made history and money when he went from panning the pitcher to pitching the prayer, and it looks as if "Tex" Gressett, of the Portland club, which opened here Tuesday, is about to do the same thing, with reverse English.

Gressett is ready to punch an umpire almost any day in the summer, but in the winter, as a theological student at Christian college, Abilene, Tex., he is willing to "turn the other cheek."

Gressett is an outfielder. He broke into baseball three years ago in order to earn enough money to finish his college career. If he completes his course next winter he will be an ordained minister.

Members of the Beavers declare here that Gressett is "right there" and that he will probably pass up a chance at the pulpit if he gets a chance at the big leagues next year.

C. E. TALLEY GETS BAD NEWS

BURBANK, April 20.—C. E. Talley, owner of the seed store on East San Fernando boulevard, has received word of the death of his sister, Mrs. Susan Cronnen of Los Angele, who passced away at her home Monday. She had been ill but a few days. She is survived by her husband as the only member of her immediately family.

An eager-looking youngster approached a man hurrying in the direction of the railway station. "Carry your bag, sir?" he asked.

"No," snapped the man.

"I'll carry it all the way for a nickel.'

"I tell you I dont want it carried!" snarled the man.

Whereupon the lad broke into a quick trot to keep up with his victim's hasty strides, as he asked in innocent curiosity, "Then why are you carrying it?"

CONFERENCE ON FROST DAMAGE IS CALLED

Closing Day of Covina Given to Discussion of Ways and Means

Is there a way of preventing frost damage to citrus fruits and trees that is better than oil smudging? A way that is efficient, and at the same time cheaper, or handier, or less detrimental to property than the oil smudge? The fact seems to be that there may be several such ways.

An open meeting of all persons interested in frost prevention by new and improved methods will be held all day long at Covina, Los Angeles county, Saturday, April 29, opening at 10 a. m. Inventors of new methods and devices for frost protection will be present, some with working models, to explain their systems, and all of them ready to give all the information they have on the subject. Full opportunity will be given everybody to inquire and investigate. All are welcome; the meeting is open without charge.

This is also the closing day of the Pan-City Exposition at Covina, in which the schools of ten towns of the San Gabriel valley display their school work, and many other interesting exhibits, so there will be interest for all members of the family. A lively street parade, with floats and features, will be made in the morning, the town in gala attire. The chamber of commerce will give a barbecue lunch at noon, and the afternoon and evening will be filled with a varied program of highly interesting entertainment, embracing athletic events, radio concerts, Spanish singers, and the like, but the business end of the occasion, in which our ranchers are mainly interested, is this study of the frost problem. Everybody welcome at Covina, April 29.

HARDWARE POINTS WAY BUSINESS IS GOING

Things are looking up for the Glendale Hardware company, 601 East Broadway. Which means, in other words, that there is just as much if not more building being done at this time than ever before. If there is any firm in Glendale that is in a position to know what is going on along the building line it is this hardware company. The members of this firm are always right in touch with the builders and for this reason they vertually have their fingers on the pulse of the building activities of the valley. The amount of hardware used is a thermometer by which the amount of building may be ascertained.

"There has never been a time in the history of our business," said Mr. Webb, manager of the Glendale Hardware company, this morning, "that our business has been better than it is right now. Since we took possession of this store our business has experienced a gradual growth until now it has grown to a far greater extent than we ever thought possible. We have the largest floor space of any hardware company in Glendale and we expect confidentally to hold the lead as long as we remain here. We buy in large quantities and our prices speak for themselves."

M'GEE DRY GOODS STAGES BIG SALE

General Sale Will Open Friday and Be on for Days

A gigantic spring sale of general dry goods will start at the McGee Dry Goods store, 612 East Broadway, next Friday morning, and will continue for several days. This dry goods store is one of the oldest establishments in Glendale and the bargains that will be offered in this sale will result in an actual saving to the people of Glendale in real, sure-enough dollars.

This sale will include bargains in shoes for the entire family, men's furnishings, women's and misses' furnishings, general dry goods, notions, etc. The sale will end on Saturday, April 29.

"Those who have seen our sales in the past know that we never put on a fake sale," said Mr. McGee, proprietor of this store this morning. "New goods and new prices are to prevail. We want to especially call the attention to the shoe department, where we are making not only great cuts in prices, but also wish to direct the attention of the public to the completeness of the department. We have thousands of dollars' worth of new spring shoes for every member of the family, and we have reduced the prices from 50 cents on infants' shoes to $2 on the men's higher priced shoes."
